Phoebe King is an associate in the Los Angeles, California, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. Her practice focuses on representing employers in workplace law matters, including preventive advice and counseling.

Education

- Loyola Law School Los Angeles, J.D. 2022
- University of California, Davis, B.A. 2018

Admitted to Practice

- California - C.D. Cal. 2023
- California 2022

Phoebe first decided she was interested in law when she interned in firm's Los Angeles office, when she was in high school. She came back to the Los Angeles office as a summer associate while still in law school and, after graduating, has been with Jackson Lewis ever since.

While in law school, Phoebe was a board member of the Woman's Law Association and Reproductive Justice Society. While attending law school she worked for Loyola's Project for the Innocent, working to exonerate wrongfully convicted individuals. She also externed at the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which gave her first-hand experience dealing with both plaintiff's side issues and EEOC regulations.

As an attorney at Jackson Lewis, Phoebe works to assist clients with complicated single-plaintiff litigation as well as class-action and PAGA matters.

Phoebe believes that the key to success is listening to her clients and tailoring her practice to each client's needs. Phoebe strives to become an extension of her client's team and will partner with each client to meet each of their specific needs.
