William J. Manning is a principal in the White Plains, New York, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. He has been advising both U.S. and foreign employers with regard to immigration matters since 1986. Bill established the Jackson Lewis Immigration practice in 1998.

Bill's practice covers all aspects of employment-based immigration into the United States. He works closely with employers to structure their immigration programs and develop long-term visa strategies for key employees. He has extensive experience in obtaining non-immigrant work visas and employment-based immigrant visas for management, professional and specialized skill employees. He frequently participates in seminars and training programs addressing immigration issues.

Bill grew up in Geneva, Switzerland, attending the International School of Geneva.
