Jared L. Bryan is the office litigation manager of the Orange County, California, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. He represents both private and public employers in all aspects of employment-related litigation, including arbitrations, both bench and jury trials, and civil writs and appeals.

In addition to obtaining summary judgment and other involuntary dismissals on behalf of numerous employers, through aggressive law and motion practice, Jared also has repeatedly secured substantial attorneys' fees awards for his clients.

Jared also devotes a substantial portion of his litigation practice to defending municipalities and law enforcement personnel in civil rights litigation. He also represents public entities in disciplinary appeal hearings and arbitrations and frequently practices before numerous administrative agencies and tribunals, including the United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the United States Department of Labor, the California Civil Rights Department, the California Department of Industrial Relations – Division of Labor Standards Enforcement, and the California Workers' Compensation Appeals Board.

Jared also provides advice and counsel and conducts training seminars on a wide range of workplace issues, including sexual harassment prevention training, in both English and Spanish.

During law school, Jared was actively involved as an editorial board member of the Hastings International and Comparative Law Review.
