Gabriela G. Kawiecki (“Ellie”) is an Associate Attorney in the Dallas, Texas, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. Ellie collaborates closely with clients across every facet of their workplace strategies, offering proactive guidance, personalized counsel, and comprehensive training. From robust litigation defense to meticulous transactional support, Ellie ensures clients can depend on her for unwavering assistances, addressing any workplace concern with diligence and expertise.

With a distinguished background in litigation and advisory services, Ellie brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to the firm’s labor and employment litigation practice. Ellie has built a formidable reputation for delivering strategic legal counsel and achieving victories in complex employment disputes. Recognized for her commitment to client advocacy and attention to detail, Ellie is someone who will strive to become an extension of her client’s team and provide distinguished labor and employment advice.

Ellie earned her Juris Doctor from the University of Illinois Chicago School of Law (formerly “John Marshall Law School”), where she graduated with a concentration in Trial Advocacy and Dispute Resolution. While attending law school, Ellie worked as a teaching assistant for an intensive appellate advocacy writing course. Since graduation, Ellie has continued her commitment to her alma mater by serving as an adjunct professor for bar preparation courses.

Prior to joining Jackson Lewis, P.C., Ellie gained valuable experience as an Associate Attorney at a prominent Chicago law firm where she honed her skills in handling a variety of labor and employment matters. She has successfully represented clients, achieving favorable outcomes through her dedication to advocacy and comprehensive legal analysis.
