Article

The Maryland Department of Labor (MDOL) has proposed a delay in the implementation of the Family and Medical Leave Insurance \(FMLI\) program in response to recent federal actions. The paid family and medical leave insurance program is currently scheduled to roll out this year with payroll deductions starting on July 1, 2025, and benefits becoming available on July 1, 2026.

According to the Feb. 14, 2025, MDOL press release, this proposal is in response to recent federal actions that have created "instability and uncertainty for Maryland employers and workers." MDOL aims to provide additional time for both employers and employees to prepare for the program's launch.

Under the MDOL's new recommended plan:

- Payroll deductions would begin on Jan. 1, 2027.
- Benefits would become available on Jan. 1, 2028.

This proposed change will need to be approved by the General Assembly, which is in session until April 7, 2025. In light of the anticipated delay, MDOL will halt any previously announced regulatory timelines for FMLI. This includes the process for employers applying to use a private plan, initially set to begin in May 2025, and the submission of wage and hour reports.

Additionally, Maryland State Senator Stephen Hershey has introduced Senate Bill 355, which seeks to extend the FMLI program's effective dates even further. If passed, required contributions would begin on July 1, 2027, and benefit payments would start on July 1, 2028.
