Nadine T. Trinh is a principal in the White Plains, New York, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. She advises clients in all areas of employment-based non-immigrant and immigrant visa processing, particularly for high-level information technology and business professionals, scientists, researchers, physicians, entertainers, and artists.

She also focuses her practice on I-9 and E-Verify compliance and employer defense in DHS and DOL audits, worksite investigations, and settlement negotiations.

Prior to joining Jackson Lewis, Nadine was an enterprise risk management consultant for four years with a Big 4 accounting firm where she evaluated processes used by multinational organizations to manage financial, technology, and business risks and prepared recommendations to mitigate the identified risks.

While attending law school, Nadine was a member of the Moot Court Honor Society. She was also a recipient of the Brooklyn Law School Gold Public Service Award as well as of the U.S. Attorney's Office Fellowship for the Eastern District of New York. In addition, she studied international securities regulation at the University of International Business & Economics (UIBE) in Beijing, China.
