Stephanie J. Peet is the office managing principal of the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. and the co-leader of the firm's Healthcare industry group. She is a strategic advisor who manages national, regional and local client relationships. She regularly represents management in employment discrimination and wage and hour cases filed in both federal and state courts, as well as equal employment opportunity and labor relations matters pending before federal and state agencies. Stephanie regularly counsels and represents employers in a range of industries including technology, staffing and healthcare. She is a member of Jackson Lewis' Women's Interest Network or "WIN," working with the firm's women attorneys and clients to increase diversity and inclusion efforts both internally and with our clients.

Stephanie also counsels employers on various employee relations matters such as Family and Medical Leave Act compliance, reductions in force, wage and hour compliance, hiring, discharge and disciplinary practices, drafting and enforcing employment agreements, including non-compete agreements and restrictive covenants, and creating employee relations policies and procedures.

Stephanie provides training to clients and their employees on a wide variety of employment-related topics such as diversity, hiring, discipline and discharge, anti-harassment, Family and Medical Leave Act compliance, and wage and hour compliance. She is results-driven and employs a highly individualized and strategic approach to handling litigation with an emphasis on her clients' business and legal objectives.

While at Franklin & Marshall College, Stephanie was Class President and a member of Black Pyramid Senior Honor Society and Pi Sigma Alpha Political Science Honor Society. During law school, she was a member of the Moot Court Honor Society and served as an Editorial Board Member for Temple Political and Civil Rights Law Review.
